This book is a work of fiction. Names, characters, places, and incidents are either products of the authors' imaginations or are used fictitiously. Any resemblance to actual events or locals or persons, living or dead, is entirely coincidental.

Published in the United States by Laboratory Publishing Company, a division of Literary Arts Boom.

Throughout the summer 2013, MUSA youth worked with Literary Arts Boom, an explosively fun creative writing laboratory in Pittsburgh, PA.

Thanks to Lindsey Miller and all of the Group 4 counselors at MUSA for their support facilitating the club.

Special thanks to Juan Fernandez for energetically and passionately leading The LAB's cartooning workshops.

Literary Arts Boom [The LAB] is an explosively fun creative writing laboratory in Garfield that offers free and low cost out-of-school programming to Pittsburgh youth, ages 6-18. Students practice and improve their inquiry and writing skills in a safe and unique space by participating in project-based workshops that incorporate art, technology, and communication.

The Mad Scientist theme encourages youth to explore, experiment and invent. Mentorship and creativity inspire students to pursue their interests, find their voices, and tell their stories.

These comics were written and illustrated throughout the month of July 2013 by a group of students, brought together by a collaborative effort between the Literary Arts Boom and MUSA. Readers will encounter a variety of images and words spawned by eight fun-filled club encounters.
